A Successful Meeting From a Racing Point The autumn meeting of the Washington Jockey Club, which closed Saturday afternoon, while the most successful meeting in a racing point of view ever held by the club, was not served. During the meeting sixty-two races were run, those on the flat being at distance from four and a half furlongs to one and onequarter miles. The races over the jumps were robbed of much of their interest because of the inability of any of her competitors to give Mr. G. R. Tompkin's grand mare Can Can the least trouble. The meeting was singularly free from any suspicion of crookedness, and if any horse was dead or was stopped there were no indications of it.

Many interesting experiences were related and there was one very amusing incident. An elderly brother had used more than his proportion of the time allotted to speakers and still continued his discourse. He was lamenting the changes brought about by modern methods and among other things said: "This isn't so much like an old-time love feast as it might be. TRYING TO GET AWAY. The appearance of so many officers made it evident that they were there for the purpose of making a raid and the motley gathering made a hasty effort to get outside. It was a case of every man for himself and no respect at all was paid the windows, for the men tried to get out through them as though they were open doors, and the result was both disastrous and amusing. One man, called "Fatty," who used a window as an exit, got through all right, but his clothing failed to pass without interruption, for his coat caught the window and the window in turn caught his coat. The result was that he went to the ground leaving his garments hanging from the window. Another man's big feet caused him trouble. The window went down, catching his feet and holding him in the air. He was extri-cated from his unpleasant situation and was permitted to depart without being placed under arrest.

When the excitement had subsided and peace again reigned Nelson informed the sheriff that he was the man for whom he was looking and he was placed under arrest. Forster was also arrested.

The officers took possession of all the paraphernalia, including the keno wheel, checks, cards, &c., and held them as evidence. The men who were arrested were then driven to Alex-andria and detained for a hearing today.

Yesterday afternoon after the raid was made business was suspended about the place for fully afteen minutes, for the officers remained there that length of time. After that the doors were opened, and when night came on the saloons were brightly lighted up and business flourished as usual.

hast sent Me" was the text of a sermon yesterday morning in the Church of the Holy City by Rev. Frank Sewall. The first missionary was the Word of God, that Word which in the beginning was with God and was God, AN EARNEST OF GOOD FAITH, THE BALANCE in the beginning was with God and was God,
"sent forth" in creation and incarnated in Jesus Christ. The Father is the all-begetting divine love; the Word, the only begotten Son of the Father, the divine truth. These two are the fundamental ground, substance and essence of all being. Love, the essence: truth, the form,
all being. Love, the essence: truth, the form,
all being the component of the all being. Love, the essence: truth, the form, expression, instrument, proclaimer, missionary; the Holy Spirft, the divine proceeding life and operation. The twelve men who were apostles and all men of all churches and nations who are true apostles are breathed upon, inspired from the divine love through the divine truth, are impelled, sent forth to teach and labor for the good of others, rather than themselves. The burden of this yearning and infinite love is what speaks in the prayer of Jesus to the Father, "that the world may believe that Thou hast sent Me," "that all men may have eternal life." Not in authoritative dogmas of men, but in the eternal laws of being itself, it is vital to understand what it is to be "sent of God."

The reason is one that appeals to the philosopher, the cool rationalist, the scientific student, the man of the world, to any who dares to look beneath the mere surface of living to find out the man of the world, to any who dares to look beneath the mere surface of living to find out the secrets of his own destiny, his own duty.

All truth is the form and expression of love, comes forth from it, and to recognize this is the condition of eternal life. The responses of the beloved to the one who loves completes the circle of life. "That they all may be one, as Thou, Father, art in Me and I in Thee, that they all may be one in us."

Neither Side Scored. The Columbia Athletic Club team and the team of the Alleghany Athletic Association played a most interesting game of foet ball at the base ball grounds Saturday afternoon. Neither side was able to score.
